HOT POT AT THE THAI KITCHEN

Every Saturday, The Thai Kitchen offers Juhm Jihm, or hot pot. This new dish is brought to you from Chef Supattra's home province of Esarn and is offered in addition to the à la carte menu. Priced at AED130 per person (minimum order is for two people), the hot pot is in keeping with the much-praised high standards of Chef Supattra and the authenticity of the food that has made The Thai Kitchen such a popular venue in Dubai.

What is hot pot?

Hot pot is a communal Asian meal where everybody cooks their own food right at the table in an aromatic broth. The boiling broth is served in a hot clay pot and all the ingredients, including shrimp, chicken, meat, vegetables and herbs, are presented raw on the side. Each person then places his or her choice of ingredients into the broth until they are cooked, after which they can be enjoyed with three different and very flavourful Thai sauces.

For reservations, please call 04 317 2222.

Traiteur

SEASONAL SPECIALITIES

French brasserie restaurant, Traiteur, and its chef de cuisine, Franck Detrait, invite you to join him during January to taste specialities from the menu created using seasonal ingredients as Chef Franck showcases his passion for cooking “off the menu” using the ingredients of the day.

Traiteur presents traditional French brasserie cuisine against the backdrop of striking architecture. A magnificent showpiece staircase connects the restaurant’s two levels and gives great views of the kitchens. With a signature elevated show kitchen, the chefs in their white jackets also bring movement and informality into this area.

Two different atmospheres exist: for the Friday Brunch, guests enter a comfortable, contemporary space that is full of light, while, in contrast, dinners are casual, relaxed and affordable occasions, ideal to share with family and friends. The ambience is vibrant with the excitement of the chefs, centrestage in the restaurant, while, in the background, a selection of warm music based on modern French blends, such as Amour Amour, Café del Mar and Saint Germain, adds to the French brasserie feel.

Open Sunday to Friday (closed Saturdays) for dinner from 7:00pm to 12:00 midnight and for Friday Brunch from 12:30 to 4:00pm. For reservations please call 04 317 2222.

Master Class at the Park

Chef de cuisine at Traiteur restaurant, Franck Detrait, and the chef de cuisine at The Thai Kitchen both look forward to holding master classes, ideal as birthday or anniversary presents, or as a gift for a food enthusiast.

These cooking classes are a unique opportunity to work with, and learn from, the experts themselves, with the master classes held in two of the hotel’s most stylish venues – the Chef’s Table in Traiteur or The Thai Kitchen’s open restaurant kitchens! Intimate groups of eight to ten people work together to enjoy the fruits of their experience for lunch or dinner, and also have the chance to learn tips and tricks while cooking a tantalising meal using only the best ingredients.

Prices for each master class start from AED295 per person, which includes lunch or early dinner (prepared by the class) and non-alcoholic beverages. Master classes that also include a glass of champagne or premium wine start from AED445 per person. Our chefs offer a wide selection of classes that focus on pasta, crustaceans and shellfish, creating candlelit dinners, BBQs, finger food for cocktail parties, beef, chocolate, tarts and vegetarian dishes, among others.

The cuisine at Park Hyatt Dubai is truly authentic, presented with flair and creativity in exquisite settings. World-renowned architects and designers created these stylish venues, and enormous effort went into selecting the best indigenous chefs to produce authentic and tantalising dishes from each of them.

Located conveniently within Park Hyatt Dubai, Seawings operates its daily service from the hotel’s Creek side, offering an exclusive private charter for up to nine passengers. With the launch of the weekly prize draw, there are now even more reasons to enjoy brunch at Traiteur, especially following the introduction in October 2009 of the restaurant’s new chef de cuisine, Franck Detrait, its new concept as a French brassiere and the new menu.

Enjoy the stunning architecture and theatre-style kitchen of Traiteur while listening to live jazz entertainment; alternatively, relax and enjoy your brunch with friends in the private dining room, Cave Privée, or on the outdoor terrace area overlooking the yachts, a perfect location as the temperature drops in the winter months.

Featuring a large selection of appetisers and live cooking stations, Traiteur offers shucked Fine de Claire oysters, assorted pork charcuterie, and spit-roasted duck, lamb and USA beef from the rotisserie. Lobster, shrimps and salmon from the grill station will also delight, while a live station serves Eggs Benedict with Ham, as well as a selection of vegetables and potatoes served in copper pots, from French beans to roasted pumpkin. A variety of cuisine is also on offer from the piazza area outside Traiteur, where the live grill station offers marinated lamb chops, chicken and beef tenderloin with Mediterranean vegetables, and not forgetting the spit-roasted suckling pig.

As for desserts, an extensive buffet is set up inside Traiteur's private dining room (also referred to as The Chef's Table), in addition to live dessert stations. The mouthwatering selection here includes home-made ice-cream, a crêpe and waffle station, a chocolate fountain, a praline station and a plethora of other desserts, including Saint Honore, Opera Cake, Éclairs and Crème Brûlée.
