Hyatt Announces Expansion into Atlanta's Vibrant Buckhead District with Two New Openings
Hyatt Centric Buckhead Atlanta and Thompson Buckhead embrace the history, contemporary culture and soul of Atlanta

CHICAGO (December 15, 2021) – Hyatt Hotels Corporation (NYSE: H) announced today the openings of Hyatt Centric Buckhead Atlanta and Thompson Buckhead in Atlanta's highly desirable uptown neighborhood, Buckhead. The opening of these two lifestyle hotels signifies Hyatt's continued commitment to meeting the growing demand for the leisure travel segment and the growing interest from guests, World of Hyatt members and customers who are looking for authentic leisure experiences reflective of the local culture. Hyatt Centric Buckhead Atlanta and Thompson Buckhead started welcoming guests on December 14, 2021 and December 15, 2021, respectively, and the expansion provides travelers and locals centrally located, elevated accommodations in one of Atlanta's most sought-after destinations.

"Atlanta's Buckhead neighborhood is truly a one-of-a-kind cultural destination, and with the opening of Hyatt Centric Buckhead Atlanta and Thompson Buckhead, we are providing travelers and locals with two unique and immersive lifestyle experiences in the heart of the neighborhood," said Crystal Vinisse Thomas, vice president & global brand leader, lifestyle and luxury brands, Hyatt. "As the demand for authentic leisure travel experiences continues to grow, we look forward to further expansion of the Hyatt Centric and Thompson Hotels brands."

Hyatt Centric Buckhead Atlanta

Set along the edge of Lenox Square, Hyatt Centric Buckhead Atlanta is a launchpad for exploration of the city's most coveted cultural and entertainment districts. Developed by Songy Highroads and designed by Sawyer & Company in collaboration with The Johnson Studio at COOPER CARRY, the 15-story hotel has 218 guestrooms, including seven suites and is home to two dining concepts, Mount Royal and Spaceman, from James Beard Award-winning chef and author Hugh Acheson. The property offers more than 3,700 square feet of meeting and event space, a bright and spacious fitness center with Peloton bikes and panoramic views, and an outdoor heated plunge pool and sun deck on the 2nd floor rooftop.

The hotel's design pays homage to Georgia's rich history of pottery, playful emblems of earthy color schemes are complemented by bold graphics, eye-catching textures, and an emphasis on embracing negative space to underscore Buckhead's past, present and future. Guestroom features include floor-to-ceiling windows that invite the natural light and views of the Atlanta skyline into the space, as well as a bevy of intuitive amenities. The hotel is pet-friendly for guests traveling with their four-legged companions.

On the ground floor, Montreal-style steakhouse by chef Acheson, Mount Royal, combines the culinary complexity of Quebec and ingredients sourced from local purveyors across southeast Georgia, with menus for breakfast, lunch, dinner, and to go. On the 15th floor, the indoor-outdoor rooftop lounge, Spaceman, is a destination for craft cocktails from a master mixologist and a seasonal menu of shareable dishes from chef Acheson, all served amid a seamless design. On the 2nd floor, six distinct indoor meeting and event spaces are arrayed with accent wall coverings, rich hues, and art pieces inspired by Georgia's beautiful clay resources, and have built-in wet bars, intuitive technology, floor-to-ceiling windows, lounge seating, and stunning views.

Thompson Buckhead

Bringing the brand's refined edge of hospitality to Atlanta, Thompson Buckhead is a timeless space where culture is celebrated, and guests are immersed in thoughtfully curated experiences. Designed by local architects Rule Joy Trammell + Rubio, built under general contractors Brasfield & Gorrie, and brought to life by Studio 11 Design, the 10-story hotel with 201 guestrooms and suites exudes classic Southern charm and a design that perfectly melds romanticism with mid-century minimalism. Understated luxury mirrors the property's envied location in the center of Buckhead Village, while its cutting-edge architecture speaks to the city as an incubator for innovation. Simultaneously, the hotel's greenery throughout provides natural warmth and a sense of connection to the outdoors, and its traditional patterns and textures blend with clean modern form to strike a balance between modernity and the classic beauty of the neighborhood.

Within each guestroom, natural hues are complemented by rich jewel tone accents, marble mosaics and eclectic local art. Floor-to-ceiling windows look out onto sweeping skyline views, and thoughtful standards include custom 400-thread count Sferra linens and a locally curated minibar. Guests of suites and ninth-floor rooms will be invited to experience the hotel's private membership social club Tesseræ, set to debut in early 2022, with a rooftop space designed to highlight the diversity of Atlanta and draw in the city's thought leaders and creators to network and socialize. Available to all guests, a rooftop pool with private cabanas is the perfect spot for soaking up and in the sunshine with cocktails and friends surrounded by unobstructed skyline views.

On the ground level, the 140-seat signature restaurant Dirty Rascal by James Beard Foundation semifinalist chef Todd Ginsberg and Rye Restaurants is reminiscent of old-school Italian-American dining spots. Open for three meals daily under leadership of executive chef Joshua Hopkins, Dirty Rascal features a large central bar, a wall of oversized leather booths, and a private dining area. Thompson Buckhead also offers a bevy of options for meeting and event space, including a 4,187-square foot ballroom with a retractable glass wall that opens to an outdoor terrace; and pre-function areas, executive boardroom and divisible meeting space accommodates sophisticated groups of all sizes.
