Our Story

Conrad Gessner was regarded as the father of modern scientific bibliography, zoology and botany. He was frequently the first to describe a species of plant or animal in the alpine landscapes surrounding Zurich, Switzerland from 1516-1565. Gessner Restaurant is a marriage of influences from his native European Alps and Colorado Rockies. Much like Gessner's excursions, we tempt you to take a journey of your senses and explore the flavors of our menus discovering our regionally sourced ingredients, globally inspired techniques and uniquely curated preparations.
